

CONNECTIONS

Connections through the world are surprising like monkeys you might not think they connect to bananas but they eat bananas. Bananas grow by rain which is connected to the clouds they are connected to the nice blue ocean where the fishes are connected to you because you might eat fish because you might like fish. All this is connected to you which you probably never thought about that are really similar. You know you have a little part of all the connections in the world.

By: Nekayah H

School: Green Valley Middle School

Branch: Cordelia Library