

Accept Jesus Christ Pt. 2

Sometimes I feel like a hypocrite when I tell my friends about God because I tell them to be saved, that you can't be a sinner. Then I think about it, and I've been sinning lately. I talk to god and tell him that, and he tells me just to keep talking to him and that I'm human and I'm not perfect. I'm going to make mistakes no matter how hard I try not too. He told me to stay strong and hold my head high. Now I know when y'all read this you're going to think this kid is crazy, but I'm just saved and love Jesus, which brings me to my point. If you're reading this and not saved, you should get saved. If you are, then God bless you. Just to let you know h.e.l.l. is not a place you want to spend in eternity. So you should get saved, accept Jesus in you're life. It would be a great thing and whatever you do wrong God will be right they're with you. Let me tell you God is great and loving and caring. You should see into God. Life will be better and you shall be blessed. If you love the lord he will love you back. He will care for you whenever, no matter what.
