

My Summer

I can't believe it but school is coming back. At the start of summer it seems it would be very long. Now it looks like it just flew by. As I prepare my things, I look back to how I started my summer. It started out with many birthday, including mine. Then there was a couple of fun sleepovers with my friend. There was also the trips to theme parks and pool swims to have fun in the sun. And there was that camping trip where my family had so much fun, although a family of skunks came to the camp and made us leave early. Even though summer is fun, school is a good place also to be in. I finished packing and started my walk to school. Its time to learn again and wait for an even better summer.
