

Poem

“What Our Nation Needs”

There is a man named Ronald Paul
Who knows the Constitution well.
He can save our lands from a fall,
And the war he would love to quell.

The golden rule has long been gone
These past few years of senseless war.

If we were placed before the gun,
We would know why us they abhor.

To fight in battles undeclared,
To kill for honor's sake alone-
Does this seem right? Why have we erred?
Why has our list of sorrows grown?

To die for patriotism
Is a valiant cause for death.
But now imperialism
Is upheld through each dying breath.

The death toll grows everyday,
And to this, no one ever cheers.
Still, if some people had their way,
Our stay would last a hundred years!

Why want more war and not want peace?

What foolishness have we embraced!

Must we always play the police

To lands our culture is not based?

We defy the constitution

And let our sons and daughters fall.

So, resolve in revolution.

Our nation really needs Ron Paul.

Submitted by Ester S.