

Double Life

This is the story of a young boy named Martin. He was an eight year old boy who went to school like every normal eight year old boy in town. Martin was short, had brown eyes, brown hair; he was the smartest kid in his class. He had an older brother who was cool and got whatever he wanted. One night Martin wished to be 25 years old and cooler than his brother.

The day after he woke up, he opened his eyes and looked around. He found himself in a totally different bedroom. It had a plasma tv, a PS4 and a computer with the latest technology. So, he decided to take a look around and when he went into the bathroom he looked at himself in the mirror and he saw the body of a 25 year old man even though inside he still felt like an 8 year old boy.

Martin got all freaked out at first, but then he remembered what he wished for the night before. So he decided to accept his new life and try to forget his old life. He began by looking for things that could help him find out all about his new life. He found picture of him on a football team, another picture of him with a hot girl making out and then he found an agenda where he found out who his friends were, what his daily life was like and all the stuff he liked.

The clock in his room indicated it was Saturday, June 22, 8:30 a.m. Martin got ready and went to the football game, after that he and his friends went to midnight club where Martin got drunk and danced until his legs were numb. He went to his house like at 6 a.m. It was already Sunday, June 23. And he remembered it was his birthday. He fell asleep in his bed. When he woke up it was 3:30 p.m. He got a call from his buddy, Mark. Martin answered the phone and heard his friend say, "Dude, we are waiting for you at the Hilton hotel for your party." Then Martin said, "I'll get there in 30 minutes."

When Martin got to his party, he got really sad when he found out that his old friends and even some family weren't present. Martin didn't really have fun in his party without his friends and he remembered how his life used to be. So when he made his birthday wish and blew his candles, he wished to go back to the way he had been. When he opened his eyes, he was in his old bedroom lying down in his old bed. He was surprised that wishing to go back the way he was actually worked. Since then he accepted to live his normal life.
