

Love

Balls were bounding all around
But they were not making any sound
To Horace

Horace

Horace

They were not making any sound to Horace
Who was riding to his dear loved ones home
People were splashing and swimming But Horace was only thinking of winning
The heart

Her heart

Rose's heart

He was only thinking of winning
Rose's heart
From the old governor Joe

Now Rose was in a large manor
Looking down at a red ribbon
The ribbon

His ribbon

Horace's ribbon

She was looking down at Horace's ribbon
And she only thought of his love

Joe was standing in front of Rose's manor

With something on his mind

Waiting

Waiting

Waiting

He was waiting with something on his mind
Something to tell Horace

Now, past all those people, came Horace Astride his large white horse
Riding faster

Faster

Faster

Horace came riding faster
To his loved one's door

When Joe saw him, he stopped him
To tell him that
The heart

Her heart

Rose's heart

Was all his
As she loved Horace much more

Later that week a marriage was held For Horace and Rose, whose love never failed

Ohhh they loved

They loved

They loved

Horace and Rose loved each other
Ohhh through all their days of living

Even now, their love lives on
As their ghosts look out on a beach
They still loved

Loved

Loved

Their ghosts looked out on the beach
And they loved ever more
